Kids Day for Conservation, (KDC) is an annual, day-long, natural resource educational event for families from Benton County and the surrounding areas. Over thirty natural resource agencies, businesses and organizations from the local area provide free, fun, family-oriented, hands-on activities. This event has been made possible due to the generous support of community members, businesses, agencies, and organizations such as yours. With your support we can continue to provide this popular event.

The major goal of Kids Day for Conservation is to connect youth and adults to the variety of natural resources that we all depend upon and to promote conservation of these resources. The committee is composed of local and regional businesses, agencies and organizations from varied backgrounds and missions. We agree that providing this balanced educational experience forms a strong foundation for responsible use of our natural resources.

Donations to this event are gratefully accepted. Expenses include: wages for facilitation, publicity costs, facility rental, printing and more. The donations you provide are deposited at no cost with the Agricultural Research Foundation (ARF) located at Oregon State University. ARF is a nonprofit 501(c)(3) corporation. Gifts and charitable bequests to the Foundation are deductible and can help accrue tax benefits.
