

Enjoying Our Healthy Harvest Evaluation Procedure

Informed consent process:

A waiver of the informed consent process is requested because it is believed that the following criteria established by IRB for the waived informed consent is met:

1. The curriculum evaluation involves no more than minimal risk;
2. The waiver will not adversely affect the rights or welfare of the subjects;
3. The evaluation cannot be practicably carried out without the waiver;
4. In addition, there is no “debriefing” regarding the evaluation that needs to occur.

In all cases, youth participants will be asked to give their verbal assent to participate in the evaluation process prior to completing the evaluation materials as follows:

Pre-Test

Your class has been picked to be part of an experiment to represent other kids your age. We want to find out what kids your age think and do, when it comes to food. You will see some questions on the form I am going to give you, but this is not a test. I want you to share what you think, today, when you look at the statement. You will circle one of the choices that can tell us what you are really doing. There are no right or wrong answers. You might not want to answer some of the questions and that is OK. In a few weeks we will show you the same form to see if anything has changed.

Post-Test

I passed this form out the first time I came, and today I have brought the same form. Again, we want to find out what kids your age think and do, when it comes to food. We want you to share what you think, today, when you look at this statement. You will circle one of the choices that can tell us what you are really doing. There are no right or wrong answers. You might not want to answer some of the questions and that is OK. Thank you for taking the time to help us see what kids your age are doing.
