SHEEP PRODUCTION BASICS SEMINAR

- SEPTEMBER 23, 2008 ,Tuesday
- 6:00 – 9:15 pm
- Indian & Timber Room in College Center Building
- Umpqua Community College

The Oregon Sheep Grower's Association is teaming up with Oregon State University Extension Service to offer an evening seminar on Sheep Health and Successfully Raising Sheep with High Feed Costs.

The class is designed for newer producers and those who would like to learn more about flock management, but will contain important information for experienced producers as well. The program will cover topics on sheep health, the scrapie eradication program, grazing management and pasture production, and sheep nutrition. Goat producers are welcome to attend, as much of the information would be beneficial to them also.

Speakers covering the program topics are Dr. Charles Estill, DVM, Dr. Shelby Filley, Regional Livestock/Forage Specialist and Dr. James Thompson, Sheep Specialist, all with Oregon State University Extension Service and Mr. Robert Dyk with the U.S. Department of Agriculture, Veterinary Services.

There is no cost to attend, but pre-registration is requested by Thursday, Sept. 18th, to ensure adequate supplies are available. Doors open and sign-in begins at 5:30 p.m. The class will take place from 6:00 to 9:15 p.m.

To register, please call OSU Extension Service Douglas County at (541) 672-4461 or shelby.filley@oregonstate.edu
