FORESTRY & NATURAL RESOURCES/SMALL WOODLANDS

Max Bennett max.bennett@oregonstate.edu 541-776-7371 EXT. 223

PEST SCENE INVESTIGATOR WORKSHOP * Josephine, Auditorium

Date(s)	Day	Time	Cost
9/ 25/2009	FRI	9 PM—4 PM or 5 PM	$20.00

Instructors: Dave Shaw, Forest Health Specialist, and Paul Oester, Forestry Agent, NE Oregon

This is a fabulous opportunity to learn more about common forest insects and disease problems of southern Oregon. We'll make a transect from the valley floor near Grants Pass to the summit of the Siskiyou and back down again, via Williams. Along the way we'll see individual trees and stands affected by various bark beetles, wood borers, root diseases, rusts, dwarf and true mistletoes, and other pathogens. At each site we'll talk about identification and management options.

This session will be held entirely in the field. Bring your own lunch and water and be prepared for inclement weather. We'll carpool to the field sites. This is an informal tour to help improve your diagnosis skills and discuss management treatments with other woodland owners and professional pest management specialists. Dave Shaw, OSU Extension Forest Health Specialist, Paul Oester, Extension Forester, NE Oregon, and Max Bennett, Extension Forester, Jackson/Josephine County, will be your guides.

Each participant will receive two outstanding, full color field reference guides: Field Guide to the Common Diseases and Insects Pests of Oregon and Washington Conifers, by Ellen Goheen and Elizabeth Wilhite (325 pages, published by the USDA Forest Service), and Managing Insects and Diseases of Oregon Conifers, a new 104-page OSU Extension publication by Dave Shaw, Paul Oester and Greg Filip.

Previous experience with and/or knowledge of forest insect and disease issues is recommended.

Use the mail-in registration form. Registration deadline is Monday, September 21. There will be no walk-in registrations. The class size will be capped at 25.

*Jackson County residents are sought for participation in Land Steward program promoting responsible land management.
Applications due August 31st, 2009*

The Jackson County OSU Extension Service is pleased to offer the new Master Land Steward program. The Land Stewards training will help local small-acreage landowners learn about ways to create a healthy environment on their property through classroom sessions, field trips and the creation of a personalized management plan for their property. The course is targeting land owners who want to learn how to balance sustainability with their rural lifestyles.

Land Stewards will be equipped to design and implement programs to help people:

- live safely in wildfire-prone areas
- reduce yard waste and woody biomass
- identify and eradicate noxious weeds
- make their own mulch and compost
- promote and develop wildlife habitat
- maintain healthy trees and forests
- conserve water and reduce runoff

Instructor: Shelby Filley, OSU Extension Regional Livestock & Forage Specialist

For this program we will examine several different management practices that have the high potential to impact the profitability of livestock and forage operations. The presentation has a built in self-evaluation process so you can see which practices you may need to spend more time addressing. This program is part of the regular meeting of the Jackson County Stockmen's Association. The group meets for dinner (no host) at 6:00 pm and a business meeting will follow the educational program.

The Oregon Sheep Grower's Association is teaming up with Oregon State University Extension Service to offer an evening seminar on Sheep Health and Successfully Raising Sheep with High Feed Costs. The class is designed for newer producers and those who would like to learn more about flock management, but will contain important information for experienced producers as well. The program will cover topics on sheep health, the scrapie eradication program, grazing management and pasture production, and sheep nutrition. Goat producers are welcome to attend, as much of the information would be beneficial to them also. Pre-registration required. For more information call 541-776-7371
