

Read the new on-line gardening monthly

There's a new way for people to receive garden news and information every month by e-mail. It's an electronic newsletter with garden articles and featured publications sent once a month from OSU Extension to gardeners across the Northwest.

Northwest Gardener e-News brings you news and information from OSU scientists across the state. It provides timely information to homeowners and gardeners.

Every month, subscribers receive an e-mail notice of 12 new garden articles and a sampling of publications to help with current garden chores. Just click on a link and you've got the story.

Launched in March, the first issues of Northwest Gardeners e-News featured a primer advice form Oregon's lawn guru, and links to on-line publications that take the mystery out of pruning.

Upcoming issues will include advice on raising roses, disarming weeds, and the greatest hits from OSU 's vegetable breeding program .

It's easy and free to subscribe. It's also easy to unsubscribe if you change your mind . Check it out at: eesc.oregonstate.edu/agcomwebfile/garden/enews/

OREGON STATE UNIVERSITY
EXTENSION SERVICE

GARDEN
INFORMATION
for northwest gardeners

