BREAK FOR REFRESHMENTS

Hagg Lake Dam Raise Update: Tom Vanderplatt, the Tualatin Basin Water Supply Partners have completed a year-long preliminary engineering and cost study of options for a dam raise at Hagg Lake that would address new seismic standards. It will be used to guide regional policy makers as they make decisions about how and where Tualatin Basin communities will secure their future water supply. Tom VanderPlaat, Project Manager, will provide an update and describe four construction options for the Water Supply Project, all of which are designed to meet current seismic standards.
