AGENDA

Keeping your tools well maintained and sharp will make your work easier, lengthen the life of your tools, and help reduce the spread of disease and invasive weeds.

During this session we will practice cleaning, maintaining and sharpening our forest tools. We will also take a walk around the Mt. Richmond forest to get a glimpse into the unique Hayes management strategy.

Bring any tools or kitchen knives, something to sit on, and your willingness to practice.

There will be a potluck lunch after the session. Please bring a dish that does not require heating or refrigeration, as there is no electricity at the venue.

Women Owning Woodlands Network was formed by Oregon State University Extension Service and local groups of women woodland owners who wanted to:

- Recognize the growing number of women taking a wide array of active woodland management roles.
- Raise basic forestry and decision-making skills through hands-on activities.
- Support and increase women's access to forestry-related information and encouraging communication through state and local networks.
