Oregon Sunshine (Wooly Sunflower)
Eriophyllum lanatum

A low-growing herbaceous perennial plant to 2 ft. tall. Small green or silvery leaves grow in rosettes. Bright yellow, daisylke flowers appear in summer, each on a single stalk. Growth form can vary depending on the origin of the plant. Lowland forms are taller and more green than mountain or Columbia Gorge forms, which are shorter and more gray. Needs good drainage. Drought tolerant/Sun/Food source for native butterfly caterpillars/Nectar source for butterflies/Recommended for wildlife meadow gardens