Oregon Receives $139,000 for Organic Certification Cost Share Reimbursement—Deadline for Applications Extended

The United States Department of Agriculture (USDA) allocated more than $6 million for the National Organic Certification Cost Share Program (OCCSP) nationwide. Oregon was awarded $139,000, down from $284,000 in 2017. The Oregon Department of Agriculture (ODA) is a USDA-accredited certifying agent for organic crop production and handling/processing. The purpose of the OCCSP is to reimburse organic operations for specific organic certification costs. Oregon is fourth in the nation in the sales of certified organic commodities.

“The cost of organic certification should not be a barrier for Oregon producers wanting to compete in the organic marketplace,” said Oregon Department of Agriculture Director Alexis Taylor. “Oregon is very competitive in the organic industry, with more than $454 million in annual sales and over 196,000 acres in production statewide and climbing. Our goal is to make these funds widely available in order to increase the opportunities for producers to contribute to the Oregon’s agricultural economy.”

The USDA is authorized by Congress to provide organic certification cost share assistance to Oregon producers or handlers who have paid eligible costs during the period of October 1, 2019 to September 30, 2020. Oregon producers or handlers that receive certification or renew their certification from a USDA-accredited certifier are eligible to receive reimbursement for 50% of eligible certification fees, up to a maximum of $500 per annual certification scope.

Completed applications and all necessary documents with proof of payment between October 1, 2019 – September 30, 2020 must be submitted by December 15, 2020. Reimbursements will be made on a first-come, first-serve basis until all available funds have been disbursed. For completed applications, allow 3-4 weeks to receive your reimbursement.

The Oregon Department of Agriculture received an extension to continue reviewing Organic Certification Cost Share Reimbursement applications through December 15, 2020. Applications are currently being accepted.

Living Soil Surpasses One Million Views on 2nd Anniversary of Film's Premiere

As we celebrate the 2nd anniversary of Living Soil, a documentary film about the soil health movement in the United States, we also celebrate surpassing 1 million views.

The 60-minute film, which is available for free on YouTube, captures the history – and significance – of the soil health movement, beginning with painful images of the Dust Bowl, and then transitioning to personal experiences of innovative women and men who are managing their land to enhance soil health.

The documentary was directed by Ms. Chelsea Myers of Tiny Attic Productions and produced by the Soil Health Institute through the generous support of The Samuel Roberts Noble Foundation.

Funding For Farmers: Understanding Your Options and Writing Winning Proposals

A three-part seminar series from HDFFA

Accessing finances to fund infrastructure and invest in the viability of an operation is a critical but often-overlooked tool in the farming/ranching tool kit. Now’s the time to build the skills and knowledge that can bring the right financing to your farm or ranch and grow your farm business. Join the High Desert Food and Farm Alliance for a three-evening, hands-on series for an introduction and overview that will help you answer questions like "Why would I want a grant or other financial help?" and "How do reimbursements, matches, and other money management things work?" and "How do I write a proposal that helps me do what I want to do?".

This series of three will feature experts, from all over Central Oregon and beyond, sharing their knowledge with you, and offers a chance to practice writing proposals and budgets - and to ask lots of questions!

The sessions build on each other, so participants should plan on attending all three. They will be held on Wednesday evenings on December 9 and 16, and on January 6. Participants will get individual coaching and feedback, so class size is limited - please sign up by December 2 at hdffas.org/farmer-funding, and for any questions, please contact Laurie Wayne (laurie@hdffa.org) or call HDFFA at (541) 390-3572.
